About this course

Realising your dreams has never been easier, whether you want to work within the public sector or the private sector or set out as an entrepreneur, studying on our International Project Management degree will reassure stakeholders that you have sound knowledge of project management; as the degree meets the technical requirements of the APM chartered project professional competency framework.

Professional project managers are in significant demand in the UK and internationally. In the current environment, agile project managers have been able to escalate and transform projects faster than before, such as with COVID-19 vaccine delivery. The Programme Leader together with a team of multi-disciplinary academics have designed this course with the needs of modern professional project managers in mind. This postgraduate degree will enable you to explore project management in a wide range of contexts, including long-run public sector infrastructure projects and short-to-medium term projects in private sector businesses, public sector organisations and not-for-profit organisations.

The degree has a practical emphasis rather than an overtly academic or theoretical approach, it is pivotal because the project management function is required to deliver hard and measurable results.

APM Accreditation is a widely recognised mark of quality for organisations, training providers and academic institutions. It offers assurance for those wanting to access the best project management professional development services available.

Careers

Career opportunities for our MSc International Project Management degree graduates exist in the public, private and voluntary aided sectors.

Some of our alumni have gone on to be project management professionals in a wide range of organisations including consultancy, construction and infrastructure, retail, IT, supply chain and logistics, real estate, or owners of their start-up consultancies. Others have gone on to doctoral studies or careers in academia.

I decided to study International Project Management as the modules ensure delivery of knowledge and skills related to innovative project management approaches that directly refers to corporate strategy, leadership, and sustainability.
