Your library

We understand that while textbooks provide immense support, guidance, and knowledge to students, they are often a financial burden for many, so we support our students by supplying the core textbook for each of your modules. We provide e-Books for all new students. Your e-Books are available as soon as you start your course. They can be accessed through our online learning platform, and on our mobile app. e-Books can accommodate various learning needs and have an interactive functionality. During Welcome Week, you will learn how to access and make best use of them.

Your timetable

2 day timetable

- Our 2-day timetable helps you to reduce your costs, making your attendance bursary go even further
- The 2-day timetable allows time for you to undertake meaningful and relevant part time work, if desired, to support your future graduate employment opportunities

We also offer an alternative evening and weekend study mode for selected courses at undergraduate and postgraduate level. This delivery mode can be ideal if the standard day timetable doesn't work for you.

Your attendance

If you're new to the London commute, you'll soon realise that throughout your study the costs quickly add up. All of our undergraduate students are eligible for an attendance bursary.

To be eligible for the bursary, you will need:

- To be studying an undergraduate degree
- 80% minimum attendance across all modules for the semester
- To submit all assessments on time

If the above requirements are met at the end of trimester 1 and trimester 2, two separate payments of £250 will be paid into your bank account to support travel costs at the end of each trimester.

£500 bursary available per academic year.

of organisations, organising, the organised, the disorganised and the unsettled. Broadly rooted in the social sciences it promotes an understanding of these phenomena as shaping, and being shaped by, the societies of which they are part, offering pathways for better and fairer ways of organising society.

"Our understandings of what work is, what it should be, who should do which kinds of work and why, is central to understanding human behaviour in our current times. The way work and employment relations are organised in our societies determines everything from the quality of our lives to who gets to hold power, there is little more important that analysing this so we can change it for the better."

In addition to teaching he also supervises dissertation projects.

"Law plays a crucial role in the reproduction of society; it permeates all aspects of our lives and shapes our relations with others. Therefore, I believe it is important that anyone studying law not only learn the legal 'rules', but that they also understand how the law and legal institutions are influenced by, and influence, society, politics and morality. It is through this fuller understanding that students will be better equipped with the knowledge and skills necessary to succeed in their future endeavours."

Life in London

With a total student population of over 500,000, London offers an unrivalled multicultural experience and is one of the most popular student destinations in the world.

Heritage

The history of London is so rich and deep that it would be impossible to summarise it all on just this page, but London has been at the centre of history since before the Romans, making it a fascinating location for landmarks, galleries, museums, and tours.

Food

As one of the culinary capitals of the world, whatever your taste buds desire, London can cater for it all. Whether you are visiting Borough Market or checking in at Chinatown, no cuisine is left unexplored.

Nightlife

There are many clubs throughout the capital that will not disappoint, as well as sell-out gigs and concerts at over 300 venues. If you're looking for something quieter, there are plenty of chill evenings happening too, such as nightly boat cruises on the Thames or comedy nights in Soho. To make it even better, at the weekends, almost everywhere in London is accessible with mainline tubes running 24-hours.

Shopping

As a cultural capital with strong international business hubs and a diverse population, London makes a standout commerce destination. Whatever your style is, London caters to all with areas such as Oxford Street, Knightsbridge, Carnaby Street, Westfield, and Bond Street, offering a mixture of retail, restaurants, cafes, cinemas, and entertainment.

Sport

With cricket, rugby, and football all originating in the UK, it's no wonder that London is a hotspot for sport. Not only can you watch just about any sport in London, but we encourage you to take part in opportunities to play throughout the capital. Lord's Cricket Ground is located near Regent's Park in central London, Wembley Stadium can be found in the west, and in the east, a stone's throw away from the East India campus, is the Olympic Village in Stratford, where the legacy of the 2012 London Olympics can be found.

Culture

Some of the most famous, popular and largest heritage gardens, royal buildings, street parties and festivals, film locations, theatre and musicals, and art shows in the world, mixed in with a pub on almost every corner, make London the place to be all year round. You'll quickly find yourself embedded into the everyday culture of London – even hopping on the tube is part of it.

Stay local

Explore some of the local area to the campus by visiting the Royal Observatory, take a stroll through the scenic Greenwich Park, and marvel at the Cutty Sark.

Accommodation

Who do you want to live with?

Sharing a house in London can be brilliant, but there are a few things to consider before signing your contract. Choosing the right people to live with is important for your wellbeing, studies and overall life in London, and while it is ideal to find friends to live with, this isn't always easy if you're moving to a new location.

Spend time discussing what you all want out of your living situation as housemates. It's important to make sure that your lifestyles don't affect one another. This discussion should include rent and bills and other monetary commitments you may want to share, as well as location, aesthetics, amenities, facilities, room sizes, and/or parking.

Near or far

Know what type of place you want to live in and what area. Check out how easy it is to commute to the campus and back, and how close you are to amenities, such as shops and healthcare practices.

Shop around

Don't immediately accept the first place you see, make sure you look around before you decide and do your research. View a house in person before signing, pictures can be very different to the real thing, and it is best to experience the house first-hand.

Making time

Unless you are happy to relocate multiple times, remember to keep in mind that you will need accommodation for however long you are studying.

Set a budget

Create a minimum and maximum figure of the amount you are willing to pay for rent and bills, this will help make financial decisions when weighing your options.

Ready to sign?

If you've found a place, make sure you read the contract thoroughly before agreeing to anything. Here is an overview of things to check: www.studentpad.co.uk/housing-guides/before-you-sign.

Make sure your deposit will be protected in a recognised scheme, and only pay the agreed rent and deposit amount – it is now illegal to charge referencing or agency fees: www.gov.uk/government/collections/tenant-fees-act
